

THE WORLD OVER

BELGIUM MAY BUILD FORTS

BRUSSELS—The possibility the Belgian government will actually build a strongly pro-French policy, will ask parliament today to modify the French frontier as far as it has the German border was debated in parliamentary circles Monday night.

Such a radical departure from Belgium's traditional stand, it was asserted in some quarters, will be brought forward as part of Belgium's new modified neutrality plan which the government intends to define at a special parliamentary session opening at 2 p.m.

Usually informed sources forecast the cabinet pronouncement probably will affirm the government's desire to stand by its existing records together with an equal wish to keep out of any new alliances.

TRADE AGREEMENT MADE

OTTAWA—Foreign exchange according to German exporters from the goods to Canada will be made available to German importers for the purchase of goods from Canada under agreements signed by representatives of the two governments last week.

The pact, negotiated and signed by Hon. W.D. Fisher, Minister of Trade and Commerce, on behalf of Canada, and Dr. Hans R. Hemmen, Counselor of Embassy, on behalf of Germany, is a most-favorable trade agreement and a "payments agreement," providing for the allocation of foreign exchange.

MARKETING CANADIAN WHEAT

The fore part of the current week saw a lull in the active demand for Canadian wheat and the prices fell from the high attained the previous week when sales were at a rate of $1.47 per bushel, a day and the cash million bushels a day and the cash million bushels reached the high point of 147¢ per bushel, which was the best price registered at Winnipeg since April 1934.

From August 1st to October 19th, Canada exported 55,522,512 bushels to all destinations, or 19 million bushels larger than in the same period the previous year. Total deliveries from August 1st to October 17th were 111 million bushels. This leaves only 100 million bushels from the 1936 crop still in the farmers' hands. As 50 million bushels will be required for seed feed and farm carryover, only about 50 million bushels remain to be delivered.

Canada's visible wheat supply on October 16th was around 161 million bushels as against 262 million bushels on the same date in 1935, a drop of approximately 101 million bushels. Thus the statistical position of Canadian wheat is in a substantially deficit condition.

ALBERTA DIVISION C.W.N.A. SENDS RESOLUTION TO THE PROVINCIAL GOVERNMENT

Asks Prosecution of Parties Guilty of Offence

A FREE PRESS

COLEMAN, October 27—A letter has been sent to Premier Aberhart at Edmonton, in behalf of the Alberta Division, Canadian Weekly Newspaper's Association, further opposing the premier's attacks on the press of Alberta and tending them "grossly inconsistent with the facts."

The letter is signed by H.G. Halliwell, president of the Alberta Division, C.W.N.A., and reads as follows: "On October 10, a copy of a resolution was forwarded to you from the annual convention of the Alberta Division of the Canadian Weekly Newspaper's Association, urging you to take action against newspapers which you accused of telling lies in connection with your policies.

So far no acknowledgment has been received of this resolution, but instead you continue your misrepresentations over the radio against all newspapers when the way is open to you to effect a remedy, without having public opinion in an unjustifiable manner against newspaper publishers, who, on the whole, are as keenly interested in good government as all other citizens.

"An opportunity presented itself for you to meet the publishers when they recently met in Calgary, but by invitation for a month ahead of their meeting, and again during the convention, when they were staying in the Palliser Hotel on October 9-10. That this opportunity was not taken fault of the publishers.

"Your attacks on the press as a whole are grossly inconsistent with the facts, for the great majority of weekly newspapers have given a accurate news reports of the Social Credit activities, have maintained the dignity of the office of premier, and have extended the same courtesies to your party as to other political parties. They maintain they have the right to express their editorial opinions just as freely as your opinions are expressed over the radio and the column of all newspapers have been open to those who wish to write letters to the press, both Social Credit and those opposed to your theories.

"I trust you will either refrain from your continued misrepresentations of the press, or take a definite stand against those newspapers which you claim are 'telling lies.'

(Signed "Yours truly,

H. T. HALLIWELL, president

Alberta Division Canadian Weekly Newspaper's Association."

LONG YEARS AGO

October 27, 1920

Owing to the high cost of mining material and labor, the price of coal in Carbon has been raised to $5.00 per ton at all mines.

Mr. Phillips has sold a McLaughlin car to Mr. Castiglione.

The first snow storm arrived on Friday night, but the snow did not stay.

Charles McMann suffered a fire on Thursday, when his barn and stable and 500 pounds of wood were destroyed.

The rumors are that the laying of the steel on the line between Carbon and Arme will start next week.

THE CHAMPION LOSER

Among the many romantic aspects of the colonial growth of the Ford Motor Company nothing is stranger in all the history of finance, perhaps than the large fortune made by James Couzens, and the huge loss suffered by Alex V. Malcomson, who was Ford's principal banker. Senator Couzens made 29 million dollars; poor Malcomson cheated himself out of close to 500 million. Instead of becoming one of the world's richest men, he sold stock for a mere pittance.

The Ford Motor Company was incorporated on June 16th, 1913. Fifty-one per cent of the stock issue of 310,000 was split evenly between Henry Ford and Alexander Malcomson. Among the other stockholders were Couzens, at that time only a clerk in the coal business conducted by Malcomson, who subscribed $2,500 and the Dodge brothers, John F. and Horace E. who contracted to build the Fords in their machine shop and who each got a $5,000 interest in the Ford Company.

In 1906, Malcomson sold his $175,000 and probably thought he was doing handsomely inasmuch as he had Couzens' and his original investment six times in three years. But wait—Couzens hung on until 1919 a year in which the company's profit was close to 70 million dollars. The Ford family bought Couzens stock of $2,500 and paid 29 million 308 thousand dollars for it. He was the successful stockholder. Had Malcomson not sold until then, he would have drawn out just ten times as much as Couzens' hard-earned or approximately three hundred million dollars.

Malcomson thus must go down in financial history as the toughest loser on the books; as the man who stood to gain the largest profits on record but didn't have the patience or wisdom to wait thirteen years longer.

"Darling, you were cheated when you bought my engagement ring."

"Oh, no I wasn't. I know my own ring."

"Perhaps, dearest, but you don't know your carats."

During the midnight number interval Miss Peggy Stanfield entertained the crowd with tap dancing.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

H.G.L. Strange

Wheat prices have bounded up. Why?

Simply because the excess, or burdensome world's surplus, has disappeared—it has been eaten up!

So a heavy burden that has been difficult and expensive to carry has at last been lifted from the backs of our Canadian farmers.

Since 1921, however, with an average production and consumption of some 5,400 million bushels, usually carried over every year about 600 million bushels, but in 1929 many countries experienced an extraordinary flood of the acre, and so the year-around surplus suddenly and greatly increased.

More than this, during the years of the depression people ate less bread of which resulted in the usual 600 million bushels surplus growing by 1934 to the vast amount of 1,158 million bushels.

Since 1931, however, several important wheat producing countries have suffered from very poor crops, and the world has actually produced less than it has consumed, and so the world's large burdensome surplus which year has been drawn upon until now it has completely disappeared. There is only this small crop, but as well there will be, I calculate, on August 1st next only 400 million bushels in the world's cupboard for a carryover. Instead of the usual 600 million.

Just as the increasing surplus depressed prices from 1925 to 1934, so it seems have prices risen as the surplus in turn became less.

The following factors have appeared that have had the effect of pushing wheat prices up—Lack of rain prospects in Australia—France is growing wheat, important to the European crop is 6% less last year.

Factors depressing prices have been as follows—Large wheat shipments from Australia, Argentina, Danubian area, India and other countries—Seasonable weather for fall work in Europe—European demand for wheat declining—Favorable conditions in the United States winter wheat belt—Increased estimates Japanese rice and Chinese wheat crops.

When a man is wrong, and admits he is wrong, he has courage. When a man is right, and admits he is wrong, he's marred.

HOLWEGNER-BERTSCH

A quiet wedding took place on Tuesday in the First Baptist Church, Drumheller, when Gustave Holwegner, manager of the Boynton district and son of Henry Holwegner, was united in marriage to Miss Matilda Bertsch, daughter of the same minister being the Rev. K. V. Phillips.

Witnesses were Otto Bertsch and Miss Margaret Holwegner, both of whom will reside on the groom's farm near Boynton.

AUTHORITIES SAY THAT GIRL DIED OF SHOCK

That Mary Jung, three-year-old girl who was found dead in the Kneib Hill creek two weeks ago, died from causes other than drowning is believed to have been established at a post-mortem conducted by Dr. W. N. Gourlay at Water Bros. funeral chapel 24 hours after the body had been recovered, but so far as can be learned prior to the resumption of the inquest tomorrow, an enlarged island will be held primarily as the cause of death of the child, the shock of the fall into the water killing the youngster before the lungs could inhale water.

No suspicion of foul play marks the tragedy and it is anticipated that a straight verdict will be returned after evidence is heard.

Mary Jung, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Jung, was missed at 5 p.m. Tuesday, October 13. Her body was discovered in the creek barely 100 yards from her home early the following morning.—Palmadler.

NEXT MONDAY IS THE DAY SET FOR VOTING ON LIGHT AND POWER FRANCHISE

Poll Opens in Secretary-Treasurer's Office at 10:00 a.m.

"X" ON BALLOT

Next Monday, November 2nd, is the day set for the vote to be taken on the light and power franchise and below we list some of the facts concerning same.

The poll will be open from 10 o'clock in the morning to seven o'clock in the evening in the office of the Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Alex Boyd. The ballots will bear the words: "For the By-Law" at the top, and "Against the By-Law" below. The voters must mark opposite his choice, and any other mark on the ballot will render it spoiled.

The purpose of the vote is to decide whether or not the people of Carbon want the Canadian Utilities Ltd. to continue its present power and light facilities in Carbon, and it is therefore evident that as large a vote as possible is looked for, in order to determine the exact wishes of the tax payers of the Village.

While there may be some reason for the turning down of the by-law and votes between the Village and the Canadian Utilities Limited, it would appear that Carbon could not very well get along to advantage without the power and light service, and it is a question whether or not a better rate could be obtained. The present rates are not exorbitant, although a revision is made in the contract that it can be terminated at the end of ten years if written notice is given within three months of its ten year expiration date.

Turn out and vote on Monday whether you are in favor of the by-law or not. Your opinion is requested.

Rae—Yeah. How did you expect me to sleep with all that racket going on over my head.

Asked what action would be taken to obtain the required funds to meet the maturity of if default was to be avoided, the minister did not say, but declared that a similar would be met of the entire situation to determine what could be done and it would be a couple of days yet before he could issue a statement on the subject.

Seventy Varieties of Maple Sugar in Commercial Quantities

Only Obtained From Us
There are over 70 varieties of maple trees in the world, but only one of the seventy yields sugar in commercial quantities. This is the famous hard or sugar maple which grows in Canada from the Atlantic Ocean to the Lake of the Woods and in the eastern United States. Its beautiful leaf is the national emblem of the Dominion. About 95 per cent. of the maple products' industry in Canada is at present confined to the St. Lawrence River valley.

Thou Shalt Not Love

— A NOVEL BY — GEORGIA CRAIG

"What was there to do? I tossed a twenty-dollar bill to one of the attendants to see that he got into his car all right. Such carter was not worth soiling his hands over."
Pain tore at Starr's heart. His words were properly chosen, but there was something in his careless tone. What he really meant, it was quite plain to her, was that her honor was not worth soiling his hands over! A twenty-dollar bill was nothing. Money smoothed his playboy path wherever he went. . . . An icy hand clutched at Starr's heart. For it was quite as plain to her that he expected his money to win her. In his own way, on his own terms.

Not for the world, though, would she have let him know she realized that. With a flash of her old bravado, she said flippantly:
"And what does that make me?"

Lance's black eyebrows lifted slightly, and he smiled, with a touch of indignance.

"I hope it makes me your cavalier for the evening, at least," he said, his voice low, almost a whisper. There was a wealth of meaning in the tone which lent his innocent words a deep significance.

Starr turned away from him with a sense of revulsion. Lance Malrose was quipped away; he was trained to the nuances of feminine emotion. He saw his mistake instantly, and his face darkened.

"I should have known better than to use my usual line on you." There was a touch of insolence in his tone. Then he shrugged. "I suppose you're not being to stay any longer—now—at least I can see you're your car, get your wrap for you, or something?"

Starr cried out almost in a panic: "No, nothing! And I have no intention of running away from—from—oh, any or you!"

But in spite of her defy, suddenly she was fleeing from him. Anybody to get away. She had said she meant to stay, but all she really wanted to do was to get away forever from this mad, glittering playtime world.

It was not in any way what she had expected. Living out her passion in drab obscurity was better—than a million times—than this!

Half blinded with the tears she was forcing back as she dashed up the balcony steps, she collided with something that stopped her flight. The strong, virile body of a man. A hand on her shoulder, a hand against the front of a starched shirt, then she looked up, dazed.

"Starr! For Heaven's sake! Where do you think you're going? Out to beat some kind of a record?"

Michael's hands were gripping her shoulders. Michael's face beamed down at her. He was so full of his own satisfaction that he did not even notice her agitation. He could take things lightly like that, make humorous remarks, laugh when her heart was breaking!

Again she was conscious of the overpowering attraction of his presence, just an instant in her blood, that sent it singing along through every vein in her body. She fought against it desperately. Why must it be like this?

Michael was so pleased that he almost hugged her. Yet his pleasure was simply that of a man who has just put out a good business deal. It was all in the head, not the heart. He grinned, standing off to look at her with his head cocked a little to one side.

"Pretty swell!" he commented. "You're marvelous, Starr, superb! Everything is going just as we planned; better than we planned. You'll be the talk of the town tomorrow!"

The casual coqueness of the man! As long as his own end was served, what did he care the price a woman paid? But how could she know he was congratulating himself on his own perspicacity—and his luck!—at picking up a girl who hung out in La Luna and having her turn out like this, as if she had been used to people of this kind all her life? Or perhaps it was her training for her "racket" that helped?

Starr's resentment raged again. Confronting at length with her storming emotions. She clenched her fists until the scarlet nails dug into her palms. A cold, brittle voice came through her painted lips.

"I can't go through with it, Michael!"

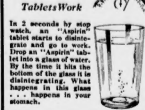

His jaw dropped, and he stared.

"Can't go through with it?" he echoed unbelievably. "But why?"

What's the matter? Has anything happened?

Suddenly it was he who was agitated. He saw his money-making scheme falling through because of the whim of a girl he should have known better than to have trusted in the first place. His hands tightened their grip on her shoulders, sending shooting sparks of fire through her soft flesh.

He said rapidly: "What's wrong, Starr? Haven't I done enough for you? Isn't the salary high enough? I'll raise it!"

"Money!" Was that all that men thought about? And this particular one probably thought she was trying to hold him up, now that he had confessed she was making good, better than he had hoped she would.

A deep, trembling shiver shook her whole body only to be repressed. She realized only too well how hopeless it was to try to explain to her the whole thing, and she knew she might have done so. She had to plan a memory of the one or two occasions when she tentatively had tried to make him understand that she was not the kind of girl one usually picked up in place like La Luna. He had not believed her. She had known that. All he had seen in her was a good little actress who could carry out plans and he was thanking his lucky stars that sometime or other she had known what was the better things of life.

She writhed before his fault, searching face. Dusky lashes shadowed against her ivory cheeks, hiding her passion-filled eyes from him.

"Money!" she repeated dully. "That's not the reason. I've changed my mind, that's all!"

"All!" A long moment he paused. When he spoke again a harsh note had crept into his voice. A note of contempt.

"I didn't know you were a quitter, Starr."

Her vivid face flashed up to meet his gaze. What he said stung her more than all that had gone before. "So that's what you think of me?"

"What else do you expect me to think?" He shrugged, and a queer little quirk came around the corners of his mouth. "Or is it, perhaps, that Lance Malrose has offered you a more attractive proposition? He would!"

She glared at him, breathless in her instantaneous raging fury.

(To Be Continued)

"And what is your name, my little man?"

"Henry, sir."

"Why did you parents name you Henry?"

"'Tis the eighth, sir!"

"Why has your husband been summoned?"

"I'm not quite sure, but I think a policeman held up his hand and Jack put his foot on the exasperator!"

Opening His First Parliament

King Edward Will Be Speaking To Crowded House

King Edward will open the first parliament of his reign at Westminster November 3. He will arrive in full state from Buckingham Palace to the House of Lords, and will read his speech from the throne to a chamber crowded with peers and perennials and with the "Faithful Commons" in attendance.

The King will not wear a crown. The crown and the sword of state will be taken from St. James' Palace to the House of Lords in a state palanquin, guarded by an escort of life guards and the cap of maintenance, the other emblem of royal power, will be carried in front of the King. Not until he has been crowned at Westminster Abbey in May will King Edward wear his crown.

If he follows the example of his father, who also opened his first parliament some time before his coronation, the King will wear full dress naval uniform for his drive from the palace, and will don heavy robes of crimson velvet edged with gold for the ceremony in the Lords, putting on the cocked hat of an admiral when he comes to read the speech from the throne.

While he is at the House of Lords the King will carry out another ceremony of great constitutional importance. This is the signing of the royal declaration of Protestant faith, which the sovereign must make either at the opening of his first parliament or at his coronation, whichever comes first.

Another Boat Salvaged

German Battleship Taken From Scapa Flow To Shipwrecking Yard

The former German battleship, the Kaiserin, salvaged from the sea bed at Scapa Flow, completed her journey from the Orkneys to the shipwrecking yard at Rosyth Dockyard.

She carried a crew of 11 men, who were accommodated in huts erected on the keel, and whose duties were to attend to the pumps which kept the bulk afloat.

Like the other vessels of the scuttled fleet which have been raised and taken to Rosyth, the Kaiserin made her voyage up the coast, towed by three Dutch junks—Edinburgh Scotsman.

A Royal Privilege

Toronto Witness Allowed To Affirm Rather Than Take Oath

Rev. E. J. Elton took advantage of a royal privilege granted to Presbyterians 200 years ago when he appeared in women's court at Toronto. The minister expressed a wish to affirm rather than take an oath on the Bible in a bigamy case in which he was called as a witness.

"A Presbyterian and not swear on the Bible!" exclaimed Magistrate Cowan.

Told of the royal privilege, Mr. Cowan said he had been a Presbyterian girl his life and had never heard of it. He allowed the witness to affirm his intention of telling the truth.

GIVES BEST POSSIBLE RADIO RECEPTION

IT IS AIR CELL that has made battery radio so immensely popular these days. Air Cell—the modern battery—does away with the necessity of re-charging.

Air Cell maintains itself by simply breathing air. It sounds like a miracle and it is indeed one of Science's great achievements. Best of all, peak power level is maintained for 1000 playing hours. No dwindling of power as in other batteries.

And Layerbilt! Well—everyone knows it is the super "B" battery. It is built in tightly-packed layers and gives far longer life than the old-fashioned round cell types. Thus you don't have to change your "B" battery as often as formerly.

This year, Eveready has eliminated the terminal posts and given you one socket—this means only one connection for each "B" battery.

CANADIANS AND THEIR INDUSTRIES—AND THEIR BANK DAIRYING

HENRY: "Angus, do you ever think of the time when this dairy business?"

ANGUS: "You bet I do, Henry. It all started with me driving that milk route at $20 a month and board. I worked early and hard for what I got, but the turn came when the boss was willing to sell out. The Bank of Montreal knew I was shifty from the way my savings account had grown steadily. They helped a lot by lending me some money—in good security, of course; it gave me a good start. I still worked mighty hard, but the profits made me forget I was so tired. We have a nice balance at the Bank now."

HENRY: "Yes, and you took me in as a partner and gradually we worked up to a fine herd of our own and later a modern dairy outfit. And don't forget what our wives and children did, Angus."

ANGUS: "No, indeed! Even the girls joined calf clubs and borrowed money from the Bank to buy the first fine stock. They did their bit in building up our present prize-winning herd."

Not only are the largest dairy concerns in Canada customers of the Bank of Montreal, but hundreds of independent dairy farmers as well. Large and small, they keep their business deposits and savings at the Bank and borrow at times for seasonal requirements. Many of them call on the Bank for other services, such as credit information, market conditions. Many of them have their bonds and other valuable papers with the Bank for safekeeping.
